The FBI announced on Monday that it has located up to 121 missing children and child trafficking victims in a nationwide sting operation. In a press release, the agency said that its “Operation Cross Country” locations in more than 100 cities across the country identified the victims as part of a nationwide effort.

In a news conference, Torres griped about findings in the Metropolitan Transportation Authority’s (MTA) draft environmental assessment of the plan — particularly one that estimated the scheme would cause 50,000 additional trips per day.

Rep. Ritchie Torres says he was ‘blindsided’ by prospect of more trucks on Cross Bronx Expressway because of NYC congestion pricing

Phoenix-based FBI agents located 17 victims of human trafficking last week as part of a nationwide enforcement campaign, authorities said.
